Purpose of the CLCGB Music and Drill Competition

The CLCGB Music and Drill Competition is all about bringing the Church Lads & Church Girls Brigade together through music and drill. The focus of the day is to give the youth of the CLCGB a chance to have their hard work exhibited within a healthy competition. The day is a chance for companies from all over the country to connect with each other, allowing everyone to share CLCGB experiences with friends, old and new.

Using this as the focus a new committee was formed to look at the format of the competition and to make suggestions to increase participation and to change the day to make it inclusive for all CLCGB companies, battalions and regiments to attend.

This version marks the end of the first competition under the new rules. This has led to the need to amend some rules and the addition of others to make the day more inclusive to all companies within the CLCGB.

General Rules and Guidance

Eligibility

All aspects of the CLCGB Music and Drill Competition are open to any member of the CLCGB. Groups can be formed of members from a single company, battalion or regiment. Companies from anywhere in the CLCGB are eligible for entry independent of uniform, ability or previous affiliation with the 'national band competition'. Each individual competition has rules regarding the age of participants and the size of the group that may enter.

Timing

Each competition has a set time limit. Competitions held in the central arena will be timed by an official and a lighting system will be in operation. A klaxon or announcement will sound to indicate a band or ensemble entering the arena. A yellow light will indicate that a minimum time, if applicable, has been reached. A red light will be used to show that the maximum time has been exceeded. Should the lights fail flags of the same colour will be used by the timing official. All details on timings are included in the individual competition requirements.

The marching band performance begins and ends with a salute. These salutes signify the beginning and end of the timing. Other competitions may be started with a salute if the company is in uniform and wishes to. This must be declared to the Arena Marshall before going on the arena to make sure there is someone to receive the salute.

Any band or ensemble over running or under running the allotted time will incur penalty points at the rate of: 1 point per 5 seconds up to 30 seconds and 1 point per second thereafter.

Warm-up

Bands and ensembles are allowed time to warm-up and position themselves within the arena. This can take the form of a warm-up piece, scales or other suitable warm-up. At the end of the allotted time the band must be in position on the arena ready to start their programme. Any time taken over this will incur a penalty as stated above. Ensembles and Static band performances must be set up in the allotted time, over running of this time will also incur the above penalties.

Instruments must not be played near the arena. Tuning and practicing must be done away from the arena either outside or in preparation rooms provided.

Winning band

The winning band in the marching display will perform at the end of proceedings. The remaining bands will be played off by a band as decided by the arena marshal on the day.

The Muster

At the end of the competition awards are presented in the Muster. All marching bands, soloists, ensembles, static and drill squads are required to attend. All performers can fall in and parade as a company. The march on can be to music played by the band.

Members not affiliated to a band (including drill squads from companies without a band) can march in on their own or affiliated to another company/band.

Safeguarding

All CLCGB events must follow the 'Church Lads' and Church Girls' Brigade Guide to working safely with young people and vulnerable adults'.

Companies must bring a suitable number of Leaders/Helpers/Parents as prescribed by the above document to supervise the young people in their care. Companies need to ensure they conform to this document i.e. leaders/helper/parents are DBS checked and have completed safeguarding training, if this has not happened they should not be left unsupervised with any under 18's.

Safe areas to change will be provided by the band competition. Over 18's and Under 18's must not change in the same areas and adults should never be in a 1:1 situation with a young person during this event. Instructions will be provided on changing depending upon the venue. If this is not made clear, please contact a member of the organising committee.

Safeguarding for each company is the responsibility of the officer responsible for each individual group.

Companies may bring external changing facilities that can be erected on the grass outside the venue. Any company wishing to do this must inform the organisers. If a company is wishing to do this, they are in charge of all the safeguarding associated with this option.

General Information

Each participating company must supply at least one member to help run events on the day. This will probably be in the form of 'running' for a judge or official. Job roles will be assigned on the day. This can be a participating member.

Any times issued on the day will be subject to change with what is happening on the arena. As much warning as possible will be given by the arena marshal but all bands, ensembles, squads and solos must be prepared 10 minutes before the allotted time slot.

Completed entry forms must be submitted 2 weeks prior to the date of the competition to allow for arena planning and a programme to be constructed with timings to be provided to companies as soon as possible. Entries may not be accepted after this date.

The Arena is of the dimensions 14m x 26m. This area will be marked by cones. Marching bands must stay within the marked arena for the duration of their display. Bands will form up at the rear of the arena. Static performers, drill squads and ensembles must form up as directed so the audience and judges can hear and see the performance. Ensembles and Static bands may march onto the arena if in uniform.

Bands and drill squads will be allowed a number of helpers based upon their size. This is to help with preparing the band/drill squad for their performance. Bands/Squads are allowed the following number of helpers:

Band/Squad Size	Number of helpers allowed on the day
1-20	2
20-30	3
30-40	4
Larger bands are allowed one helper for every 10 members (rounded up).

[NB this does not counteract the safeguarding rules from the previous page. This is the number allowed to prepare the drill squad/band for inspection. It is also the number that will be allowed into the band competition free of charge. If more are needed to ensure safeguarding, then these must be provided.]

A Band information sheet (see appendix 3) must be submitted on the week of the event with the information necessary for an announcement before each performance.

If a Band needs access to electricity for any of the competitions where electrical instruments are permitted this must be requested one week before the event so provision can be made. After this date it cannot be promised.

If a backing track is needed for the drill competition this must be brought on a fully labelled CD and an audio device with a headphone jack. This must be submitted in good time before the drill competition, so a sound check can be undertaken.

Any changes on the day must be communicated to the event organisers as soon as possible to allow changes to be implemented in the programme of events.

Drill Competition

Overview: This competition is for companies to showcase the drill they do on a meeting night in a healthy competition against other companies. There is a set selection of drill manoeuvres for each age category that can be performed in any order selected from the Brigade Drill Manual set for age level and an appropriate level of difficulty.

For the first part of the competition these manoeuvres can be performed in either a memorised display (with or without backing track) or in a practised order with a drill instructor giving verbal commands. If an instructor is giving commands, then a free movement section should be included of ~30 seconds made up of a routine with no commands given.

There will then be a further section of drill commands where a previously unseen list of commands will be issued to the drill instructor to show the drill squads response to unpractised commands.

Performers: This competition is open for squads from Y Team, JTC and Seniors (up to 18 years) and each company is entitled to submit one squad per age category. Squads have a minimum size of 4 members, there is no maximum size. A younger member can participate as part of an older squad, but an older member cannot participate as part of a younger squad. (i.e. a Y-Team member can participate in a JTC squad but a JTC member cannot participate in a Y-Team squad). There is no limit to the number of younger members that enter an older squad.

An instructor for the drill squad is recommended. The instructor will not be marked. The instructor can be of any age. An instructor can be supplied for the oral command section if necessary.

A company can enter one squad per age category into the competition. (The instructor can be the same for each entry).

Dress: Squads must wear either formal or informal Brigade uniform. Four members of each squad will be inspected. (See Inspection Competition for details).

Drill: Must be smart, uniform and based on the Brigade Drill Manual.

Timings: 2-4 minutes for the display. This should include a free movement sequence that should be a minimum of 30 seconds to demonstrate how the squad can manoeuvre without the direction of an instructor. The oral command section will take place immediately afterwards.

Marking criteria: Squads will be judged on the following criteria (total 100 marks):

- Set moves (Commands at the halt, Turns, Marching, Free Movement) – 10 marks each, 40 marks total.
- Execution – 20 marks
- Uniformity and Synchronisation – 20 marks
- Oral Commands – 20 marks

Marking: Squads will be marked using the criteria above. The squad with the highest mark in each age category will be the winner.

In the event of a tie in the drill competition the squad with the highest mark in 'execution' will be declared the winner.

Awards: The following awards are available in this competition:

- Drill Competition – Y-Team, JTC and Senior Corps Winner

There are also awards available for the inspection competition associated with this competition. See the inspection competition for details.

Rank scores are calculated for each marking criterion (i.e. the highest mark in the drill competition would be given 1 point, the second highest mark would be awarded 2 points etc.). For each band the sum of these rank points is calculated for each of the six criteria and the award presented to the band with the lowest total score.
